

Medication Administration

Our Medication administration course is aimed towards providing caregivers with a working, tested knowledge of the processes involved in the administration of medication in line with regulations.

Key components include:

- Explanation of why medication training is so important
- To gain awareness of legislation surrounding medication
- Gain insight into types of medication
- To name the routes of medication
- Explain the reasons for risk assessments
- Answer questions on “good practice guidance” regarding medication

As the session progresses delegates are encouraged to share their existing knowledge of administering medication and other important common issues (refusal, administration errors and family intervention)

Following completion of the course delegates will have an understanding in the following:

An awareness and understanding of legislation involved with medication and how this regulates the application and administration of medicines.

A thorough knowledge of the various types and routes of medicines they are likely to come across and the correct procedures for administering this type of medicine. Infection control, PPE and cross contamination will all be discussed throughout.

Confident in dealing with refusal and understand what to do in the event of an over dose, side effects, emergencies and will know exactly who to call and where to obtain help
